FURTHER INFORMATION: Ecommerce Web Site Development

Ecommerce Web Site development is more involved than “standard” Web Site development. A number of other requirements must be met for a Web Site to be successfully enabled with true Ecommerce functionality.

STAGE 1: Standard Implementation Costs

Design and Development of the Web Site: Construction of a Web Site which allows a Merchant to sell multiple Products across the Internet.

STAGE 2: Additional REQUIRED Costs for Ecommerce Enablement

Web Site Expense: Secure Server Certificate

This is to provide identification to the user that they are making the transaction over the Web on a secured Server. A Secure Server Certificate as provided by a Hosting Services Provider will be generic Certification only. You are advised to purchase your own in case you need to change Server/Hosting Providers.

- Verisign and Thawte are the most trusted names for Secure Server Certificates. The cost of a Secure Server Certificate in NZD is in the region of $500+GST.

Web Site Expense: Hosting on a dedicated Secure Server / Leased Server

Your Server will need to be able to host your Ecommerce site correctly for security reasons. To do so requires software to be installed (or present already) which is not part of a standard Hosting setups. You should therefore be aware that hosting an Ecommerce site is more expensive than hosting a standard Web Site.

Business Expense: Business Merchant Account with your Bank

Banks will charge a fee to set up a Merchant Account for you. In New Zealand, this would normally be around $80 to get a Merchant Account, and you would then be able to take Visa transactions over the Internet. The maintenance on a Merchant Account is around $10NZD per Month excluding Transaction Fees.

Business Expense: Bank Transaction Fees

Banks will also charge a Transaction Fee, usually based on volume of transactions.

ALTERNATIVE ECOMMERCE SYSTEMS

PayPal

You can use PayPal, a respected US-based Merchant Services Provider. More information can be found on their Web site at <http://www.paypal.com>

PayPal provides a facility to draw money paid through their system to your local Bank account. There is a Drawdown Fee charged for money taken from your PayPal Account to your local Bank Account, in addition to a Transaction fee when the purchase is made. However, this allows you to avoid the expense of standard a Merchant Account, and allows you to easily manage your Transactions for your Web Site in one convenient place.

PLEASE NOTE THE FOLLOWING IMPORTANT INFORMATION!

You must make clear when you apply for processing credit cards that it is with respect to a Web Site. There are specific requirements from VISA and their associated Banks that have to be met. This is because of Internet transactions being classified as “Card Not Present” transactions.

5. COLLECTIONS POLICY

Below is an overview of the Payment Policy we are obliged to enforce in order to preserve our relationships with our suppliers and existing Clients to the highest professional level.

While we do not have any problems with most Clients, occasionally we have to turn towards other means to not only protect the viability and overall integrity of our business as a whole, but most importantly, the services we are providing to existing Clients on an ongoing basis.

5.3 IF YOU HAVE AN OUTSTANDING BALANCE

Only in very exceptional cases, and at our complete sole discretion, will the Standard Payment Terms be waived in favour of alternative arrangements.

You will be advised via email after a period of 14 Days have lapsed if the Balance Due to Edesignz Limited is still outstanding. Payment will then be expected within the next 7 Days from the date of such a Notice to you.

5.4 Balances outstanding for more than 28 Days from the Date of the first Invoice being issued will be turned over to a Collections Agency without fail for subsequent retrieval, and we may also seek further remedies as appropriate, at our sole discretion. Clients are further advised that the cost of using such Services to secure funds owing to us is at the sole expense of the Client, not Edesignz Limited and all such charges will be accordingly billed to the Client.

PLEASE NOTE THE FOLLOWING:

We regard both the non-payment of fees on time or slowness of delivery of payment as a serious threat to our ability to provide good service for all Clients, continued operation as a business, and an action which critically undermines our relationship with the Company's Suppliers.

By signing an authorisation to commence Web Projects, or by initiating any other Service we charge for, all Clients automatically acknowledge their full and total agreement to the Terms & Conditions without reserve, both here and on our Web Site.

6. OTHER CREDIT NOTES

7. Questions & Answers

So that you can feel positive about your selection of us as the intended developers of your Presence, let us answer some common questions asked of us now.

Can Edesignz be trusted to deliver a product you're happy with?

We think that is obviously something better said by a Client of ours. Solutions can always be delivered in a technical sense, but we feel that the approach and attitude is probably more important in fact. We seek to ensure long term relations with Clients. We encourage you to visit our Site, and view some of their comments. We can issue you with contact details if necessary.

We are an award winning Web Site design service and although small in scale, our work speaks for itself.

Why does Edesignz ask for a Deposit for any Services to commence?

We expect to issue a professional product and we expect our Clients to commit to their Web Campaign. We feel there is adequate facility provided within the Development Cycle to stop, amend things if necessary and therefore work around potential difficulties if they crop up.

Is there room for development at a later date without costing too much?

Building future usability is a cornerstone of a good site, and we seek to provide good solutions regarding this crucial aspect of development. You would only incur excessive charges for what might be considered a complete change in development. Clients should be aware that although some changes to you might seem minor, it can be quite involved behind the scenes in reality. Therefore, if you reach the end of the project and something quite critical is changed, it may affect much more than you might have anticipated. We cover as many potential possibilities prior to development commencement to allow for this and circumvent it if possible and will keep you informed every step of the way.

How long has Edesignz Limited been involved in Web Design?

Edesignz Limited started providing Services as a professional Company in August 1999. As a group, we combine no less than 5 years of expertise across the field we deal in: Internet Development. The results of our collective endeavours are to be seen on the Sites we create.

While many Web firms similar to Edesignz have now passed on, we have remained. How? By providing our Clients with the services they actually need. We can assure you that we can provide a competitive service that will exceed expectations to your business as well.

What about Professional Achievements in Web Development?

Edesignz was proud to be a part of the Web-development aspects of "Project asTTle" which won the Computerworld 2003 Award for "Excellence in the Use of IT in Education, Tertiary, Community and Commercial".

This is a testament to the quality of work you also will receive from us, a firm indication of the quality of our work and our ability to go the extra mile where needed, so that we can ensure the all of our Clients, past, present and in future will remain happy and continue to grow with us as a business.

10. WEB SITE PLANNING ADVICE

It's perfectly okay to have small budget to start with, but if this is the case, then don't try doing it all - use it to get an important element of the business up.

This might be customer feedback or a product catalogue. The difference comes in spending the budget for the right things, and at the right time. There is absolutely no point commencing a Web Project unless you think / know you have access to the appropriate funding for such Projects.

Be as aware as you can be of the processes behind Web Site development from the very start. Use it as a checklist to tick off what you already know about the Development process and what areas of information you need further clarification of. That way you can save yourself time and money when it comes to getting the process formally underway.

As mentioned, we have a section on our Website for Clients to find out more about our Services, how the Project Management process works, and related information.

10.1. INITIAL PREPARATION

- Plan the Project out: Why it is necessary at this point, and what aims the investment is supposed to achieve in relation to your intended business/personal future, and in relation to other promotional avenues;
- Optional: acquiring the skills of professional Copywriters for the Content;
- Optional: Commissioning Promotional Strategies: Print exposure, Market research;
- Assessing options for training in-house vs. hiring Consultant services;
- Assessing appropriate Budget requirements and sources of funding.
- Organising appropriate Funding;

10.2. BUILDING PREPARATION

- Preparing the Development Team
- Working out the Contractual Processes;
- Consulting with the Site Developers;
- Initialising the Proposals for Development;
- Working out the feedback process.
- Acquiring necessary equipment to host and manage the Web Site, or outsourcing this aspect of the new Site totally;
- Acquiring necessary Drafts of work;
- Committing to the full development;

10.3. PROMOTIONAL COSTS

- Online Directories (Local, Regional, National and Targeted -- e.g. Yellow Pages);
- Online Search Engine Submissions [free submissions rarely produce the required results – more likely you should opt for paid submissions to guarantee a quicker appearance in the relevant Index/Search Engine);
- Newspaper Advertising on a national basis / local basis;
- Stationary redesign if necessary / re-issue with Web Address;
- Magazine Advertising;
- Local Trade Papers;
- Official Press Releases / Formal Media Launches / Special Report;
- Mail Outs to potential and existing Customers advertising your new presence;
- Brand awareness building, especially if intending Web site to be main focal point for Customers: different set of promotional products for "bricks-and-mortar" business.;

10.4. ONGOING COSTS

A Web Site is not a static entity: it is a dynamic business asset that can respond to your customers information requirements immediately – thus allowing your business to respond to them as well.

Your presence on the Internet is much more than your Web site. A Web presence for business encompasses multiple channels and processes. These include advertising, client management, finance, staff communication and much more. Used wisely, your Web presence can allow you to concentrate fully on the “business of being in business”.

Administrative tasks are handled more efficiently using combinations of online (your web presence) and offline (existing computerised business systems in your office) synergy.

In order to remain at a level appropriate to your business, certain items need taking care of on a frequent basis, and are as follows:

10.4.1. Necessary Costs:

- Maintenance of Technical Requirements – Yourself, or Consultant service such as us?
- Maintenance of Site Content - Yourself, or a Consultant service?
- Hosting Costs - In house, or an external Provider?
- Redevelopment at any stage - Web Sites are re-evaluated for effectiveness every 6 months at least. This may require modifications to the Site, or changes in Advertising initiatives, all of which has a subsequent cost attached.

10.4.2. Optional (Dependent on the type of Web Site/Business Case):

- E-Commerce – Transaction Fees - Charges from your Bank, the Hosting Provider of your Ecommerce Site plus any other applicable maintenance fees.
- E-Commerce – Merchant Account Fees – Your Merchant Account will have a maintenance charge like any other facility the Bank would provide.
- Detailed Statistical Data Reports – Getting to know who is visiting, what they are visiting, where you should therefore improve Services. In house, or external Provider?
- Staff training – If required to maximise the new Web presence of your Business
